

Possible Personas and Users for Adulthood101.com

User 1: Jose San, 18

Jose is a senior in high school, getting ready for college. He has just committed to a school 13 hours away from his hometown and is worried about living so far away from his parents. On campus, Jose realized that he needs to open a bank account to store and access his money more conveniently than just carrying cash around everywhere. However, he can never seem to find the right time to ask his parents how to navigate the banking world. After some time, Jose decides to check online and finds Adulthood101.com, which explains all the types of accounts he can open and also gives advice about money management. He finds the website really helpful and was able to successfully open a checking account because of it.

User 2: Alex Flamingo, 22

Alex Flamingo is a recent college graduate entering the workforce, and he's trying to ensure that he has housing in the same city as his upcoming job. Alex hasn't had any experience renting or buying an apartment before, as he lived on campus all four years and doesn't know where to start looking or what good housing offers are. Luckily, he found Adulthood101.com when searching for housing information and found the guide it had on the housing and rental process to be very helpful. Alex bookmarks the page in case he ever needs to reference any of Adulthood101.com's guides on legal advice too.

User 3: Patricia Owens, 41

Patricia Owens is a typical helicopter mom, afraid that her son is going to struggle while away at college. Since the world has just emerged from a pandemic, she's especially worried that he won't be able to take care of himself when he or his roommate gets sick. Because of this, she goes online searching for something that will be able to guide her son in the right direction when it comes to common medication and what to do. Mrs. Owens stumbles upon Adulthood101.com and loves the guides that it provides about health and medicine. She makes sure her son and all her friends' children bookmark the page for future use.
